

A Message to Friends, Partners and Patients

The Joseph P Addabbo Family Health Center's Chief Executive Officer, Dr. Miriam Vega, the senior management team and staff want you to know that we are aware of the many challenging concerns surrounding the risks of the COVID-19 (coronavirus) you all may have. As an organization founded to respond, address and protect the health and wellbeing of our community, we have taken the necessary steps to reduce the spread of coronavirus (COVID-19) while continuing to provide our most essential services. Our stringent safety measures are designed to address a broad spectrum of viruses, including COVID-19, and cover everything from basic handwashing hygiene and cleaning product specifications to exam room and waiting/lobby area cleaning procedures and protocols.

The Addabbo health care professionals are closely monitoring and evaluating guidance from the New York Department of Health and the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) and will continue to update you as our response evolves to this very fluid situation.

Our hearts and thoughts go out to the people who have been affected by this unprecedented health challenge and the lifestyle changes all of us now face. We appreciate the healthcare workers, local communities and governments around the world who are on the front line working tirelessly to contain this coronavirus.

Our commitment to serving your needs as a core part of the healthcare community remains strong. We are open for all your primary care, dental and behavioral health needs and continue to provide the quality care services you expect - as you need them.

As challenging as we find our lives right now, we will get through this. We are here for you.
