

A Message to Friends, Partners and Patients:

The Joseph P Addabbo Family Health Center's Chief Executive Officer, Dr. Miriam Vega, the senior management team and staff want you to know that we are aware of the many challenging concerns surrounding the risks of the COVID-19 you all may have. As an organization founded to respond, address and protect the health and wellbeing of our community, we have taken all necessary steps to reduce the spread of coronavirus (COVID-19) while continuing to provide our most essential services.

Most of our Sites remain open for your primary care and behavioral health needs and we will continue to provide the quality care services you expect - as you need them. We have added Telehealth services as well so you can visit with your provider from home. Just call our main number at 718-945-7150 and one of our representatives will assist you with this simple process.

Our stringent safety measures are designed to address a broad spectrum of viruses, including COVID-19, and cover everything from basic handwashing hygiene and cleaning product specifications to exam rooms and waiting/lobby areas cleaning procedures and protocols. The Addabbo health care professionals are closely monitoring and evaluating guidance from the New York DOH and the CDC and will continue to update you as our response evolves to this very fluid situation.

Our hearts and thoughts go out to the people who have been affected by this unprecedented pandemic and the lifestyle changes all of us now face. We appreciate all our healthcare workers and other essential workers who are on the front line working tirelessly to keep this country going as we combat this virus. Our commitment to serving your needs as a core part of the healthcare community remains strong. As challenging as we find our lives right now, we will get through this – together. We are here for you.
