

A message to Friends, Partners and Patients:

The Joseph P. Addabbo Family Health Center's Chief Executive Officer, Miriam Y. Vega, PhD, the senior management team and staff want you to know that we remain aware of the many challenging concerns which still exist surrounding the risks of the COVID-19 pandemic. It has now been a full year since the pandemic was declared and we have come through one of the most difficult years ever experienced. It has been a season of loss and heartbreak, but we continue to move forward.

We believe we have entered a new "season of hope" brought about by the availability of three very effective vaccines and we will do everything we can to make sure we administer as many vaccines as possible.

As an organization founded to respond, address and protect the health and wellbeing of our community, we have taken all the necessary steps to reduce the spread of COVID-19 and we are very proud that we have been able to continue providing our most essential healthcare services throughout the pandemic.

Our very strict safety measures are in place and include enhanced air filtration systems, enhanced cleaning protocols for lobbies and exam rooms, fiberglass barriers where appropriate, dividers, PPE, temperature checks, masks and social distancing - all so you can feel safe visiting in person with your providers.

Our commitment to serving your needs is a core part of the healthcare we provide. Yes, we are still in challenging times, but we will get through this too - together. We are here for you.
