

A Message to Our Valued Patients...

The Joseph P. Addabbo Family Health Center wants you to know that it has returned to full services at all of our sites. We have taken all the necessary steps to help you feel secure enough to return in person to your providers for your regular and routine healthcare. We have also established easy and convenient on-line care for telehealth visits to make sure you don't disconnect with your healthcare providers.

We believe that providing excellent healthcare is our calling and we know you expect excellent healthcare. We also know that you choose who provides health care to you and your family and we take our commitment to you and to our community very seriously.

You, our patients, and our staff form a particularly important healthcare partnership. Our patient-focused approach keeps you well-informed about your health and as a result, keeps you healthier. Our staff operates as a family team of professionals to deliver the quality care you need, whether it is managing a chronic medical condition or maintaining a healthy lifestyle, we remain dedicated to working with you to help you achieve your healthcare goals.

Indeed, we have come through some of the most challenging times we have ever experienced and while we have not fully emerged from the pandemic, we are hopeful that we have come through the worst of it.

If you haven't done so yet, please make that all-important appointment to see your healthcare provider. Your health is very important to us and to you!

Miriam Y. Vega, PhD
Chief Executive Officer